THE SCANDAL OF FRANCE.

Expert Bertillon Refuses to Answer Important Questions.

HIS VIEWS CONVICTED DREYFUS.

M. Guyot Testified That the Esterhazy Court Martinl Was a Parody on Justice-Crowd Calmer.

Paris, February 14 .- When the trial of M. Zola and M. Perricux was resumed today M. Juarez, the socialist member the chamber of deputies, was recalled. He reiterated his belief in the culpability of Major Esterhazy.

The examination of M. Bertillon, the handwriting expert, was then resumed. ALL FRANCE ON TRIAL.

GRAVE ANXIETY EXPRESSED BY THE LEADING JOURNALISTS.

The Gaulois Says "Anarchy Prevails In the Army, the Law and in the Street," the Herald from Paris says: What will be the upshot of the whole business is a question that may be asked with some profit at this juncture of the Zola trial. The gravest anxiety obtains and the Gaulois goes so far as to complain editorially that "anarchy prevails in the army, in the law and in the street," and calls upon M. Felix Faure to exercise his constitutional power and put a stop to this state of things.

Following are the views of well known Parisian journals:

of the government." Ferdinand Xau of the Journal said: "The extreme gravity of the Journal said. "The extreme gravity of the situation does not lie in the question of the culrability or the innocence of Dreytus, but in the passions of the various parties. The question tends to separate into two camps, or better yet, into sections, the nation whose unity has been its force and which less than a century ago proclaimed the rights of man—that is to say, liberty of opinion as regards politics and religion. That is where there is reason to fear that if some grain of common sense does not enter our heads, if our politicians make use of our diversions as a springboard during the coming elections and scatter hatred instead of preaching approximately and conciliation or rather repeasement and conciliation, or rather re-conciliation, the question will remain open, paralyze business and spread ruin and discord in the country, which at heart desired to be left to work on in peace and de-mands the time to consecrate itself wholly to the success of a peaceful manifestation."
